A CHAPTER ON GRASPERS.

Under this head the Carson Appeal says: "The decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Senator W. R. King vs. State Controller Hallock is a fitting rebuke to the hoggishness which is characteristic of most of the men who serve their country in the Legislature. King demanded $125 as extra services as pro tem. President of the Senate and a bill was passed to pay the money. The State Controller very properly refused to issue the warrant and a suit was brought by King, the costs of which he now has to pay. Senator Hammond spent most of his time in New York during the session and should not have been allowed to draw full pay. Nearly every clerk got a bill through for extra compensation. They drew full pay for six weeks of idleness and when compelled to work a few extra hours during the last two weeks of the session were allowed extra pay by a Democratic legislature representing a party which a few months before were howling for economy in State expenditures."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A Herald reporter has had a talk with Senator Jones of Nevada. The Senator said he believed Conkling would be re-elected, but had no knowledge of the inside details of the Albany contest, and could only say that he rested his confidence on Conkling's habit of securing victories. Being asked whether Conkling, on resigning his seat, did not expect to go to the Legislature for vindication, Jones replied that he really did not know. Undoubtedly, however, when Conkling reached New York he found it impossible to resist the pressure of his friends and the important interests demanding his re-election to the Senate.

It is related that the late Czar in riding about the country one day in 1870 met a band of gipsies, and paused to listen to their songs. One of them a young and pretty woman, came up to him and asked to tell his fortune. He allowed her to do so, and she predicted, it is said, the trouble that clouded the last year of his reign. "When shall I die?" asked Alexander II. at last. The gipsy was silent. "Speak," said the Czar. "I command it," "Little Father," replied she. "The year of your death is included in the year of your birth—1818-1881."

Chauncey M. Depew, in his speech at the senate to Robertson, at Albany, referred to the fact that Robertson was during the anti-slavery agitation, twenty-five years ago, hanged in effigy for casting the turning vote which sent William H. Seward to the United States Senate. The record he then made has been true to ever since, and when the President of the United States selected him for the principal Federal office of the State of New York, he selected one of the most distinguished citizens that ever brought honor to the Empire State.

The Carson Tribune decorated its local column with this:

"The man who is ashamed to shed a tear on hearing a tale of sorrow; or at the funeral of a loved or respected friend; or at a theatrical representation of grief or sorrow, is unworthy to be trusted, respected or known."

The Tribune came to hand this morning with its wrapper all wet. Very sensitive little journal.

The Eureka Leader is respectfully informed that its statement about the Asylum Injunction Suit, arising from warring political factions in Washoe county, was entirely wide of the mark. When the Leader forsook that notion and considered the merits of the case, it experienced a change of heart. The Leader is certainly very hard of hearing.

The Times-Review man has decided to postpone his Parisian trip. Hear Him: "The Parisian Jardin Mabille is to be closed. We were going over to Paris in company with three deacons to study the art works in the Louvre, but we have given up the idea."

The term "stalwart" has heretofore been considered to apply to straightforward, uncompromising, patriotic politicians and supporters of the administration, but now it seems to be appropriated by the Conklingites. They are sailing under false colors.

Mahone is having bad luck. Just as he was swelling up to the dimensions of a political ox, he is transformed again to the insignificant dimensions of a toad. He can't even have the comfort of bursting himself.

The Eureka Leader thinks it a good idea for twenty of the best business men of Reno to band together and get the contract for building the new State Insane Asylum.

The Idaho Statesman blows about sending a reporter to Wood River. We have one now traveling all over the Eastern States.

Conkling did not decorate much yesterday. Query—Was he near anybody's political grave when he reached Albany?

H. F. Page, Member of Congress of California, reached home to-day.

Mythias, a civil engineer of the Rio Grande and Denver, and party, about the middle of April were impounded in the Gunnison country by snow, high water and Indians. A relief party was sent from Leadville on the 19th, and rescued them last week.

Vanderbilt returned from Europe Friday. In reference to politics he said to a reporter: Conkling should remember that the Collectorship of this port is as much a National appointment as any office in the gift of the President. The Collector is not Collector of New York alone, but almost of the whole country. There is nothing against the fitness of Judge Robertson for the office.

Three races are announced for the summer meeting of the Chicago Driving Park. First, a special purse for Maud S. and St. Julien, trotters, and Sorrel Dan, pacer, and free for all others with a record better than 2:14. The second prize, $1,000 to double teams trotting the fastest mile to wagon during the meeting, provided the time is faster than 2:23. Vanderbilt's time; third, $1,000 for the horse trotting the fastest two-mile heat of the meeting, provided it shall beat 4:43 1/2, Steve Maxwell's time.

Chas. C. Noakes was killed Sunday afternoon by Henry Schwoerer, at Murphy's, Calaveras county. Noakes drew a pistol, when he was shot with a double-barrelled shotgun, both barrels taking effect.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Decoration Day in the East.

CHICAGO, May 30. Decoration Day met with general observance here and elsewhere. The banks, exchanges and many places of business were closed.

New York, May 30. It is estimated that 15,000 men were in line in to-day's procession in honor of Decoration Day. It included many organizations of working men as well as military, and the Grand Army of the Republic. The decorations were extensive, especially on the graves of survivors of rebel prisons. One man was sunstruck during the parade.

GETTYSBURG, May 30. The appearance was never before so lively since Lincoln dedicated the National Cemetery in 1863. Fifteen thousand strangers, many of them very distinguished, were present. Gov. Hoyt and staff were absent. K. C. Burrows, of Michigan, was the orator of the day.

St. Louis, May 30. Great crowds of people went to the National Cemetery at Jefferson Barracks, where the decoration took place at 3 p. m. There are 12,000 graves of Federal and Confederate soldiers, and all were strewn with flowers.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30. The Michael Davitt branch of the Irish Land League to-day strewed flowers upon the grave of the grand-father of Parnell in Woodland Cemetery and also on the grave of Michael Davitt's mother in Manuall Cemetery.

Statement of a Conkling Journal.

ALBANY, May 30. The Express says: Conkling merely asks the Legislature to meet in caucus and determine for themselves the attitude the Republican party will bear towards him. Those people misunderstand the situation and misinterpret the caucus who think Conkling and Platt have any reason to be disappointed with the result of their observations in this city last week. The Senators found that two-thirds of the Republican members of the Legislature prefer that this State should be represented by them in the Senate. Of this immense majority they found a number who regretted their resignations, and did not countenance them for the course they have pursued because of embarrassments at home. The fact of this preference will explain the strenuous opposition to the holding of a caucus by the Administration and its thick and thin supporters. By preventing a caucus they hope to avail themselves of the fears of members who are worked upon by the threats of men who bolted in 1872, and who sign papers now as they did then for the purpose of frightening the timid. Issues are also falsely stated in order to further prejudice.

Speculations From Albany.

New York, May 30. A Commercial Albany special says: Most of the Republicans insist on a caucus before Tuesday's session, and they have enough to make it imperative and binding on all who desire to act with the Republican party in the State to obey the summons. The Half-breeds, although averse to a caucus, will confer to-night and reveal their dispositions. The Stalwarts are as confident as ever. They believe the others will be unable to unite on any one, and that the reaction will elect Conkling and Platt. Cornell's friends claim that he is the strongest man yet named.

An Albany special says: It may be accepted as a true prediction that if the Stalwart leaders are not re-elected a final adjournment will follow. The Senate and Assembly will nominate to-morrow and balloting will begin on Wednesday.

The Probable Programme.

New York, May 30. The Express special from Albany says: It may be accepted as a true prediction that if the Stalwart leaders are not re-elected a final adjournment will follow. The Senate and Assembly will nominate to-morrow and balloting will begin on Wednesday.

The New York Election.

ALBANY, May 30. The Democratic caucus has nominated John C. Jacobs and F. P. Kernan for the vacant Senatorial seats. The Republicans Assembly caucus adjourned without action. The chances seem to be against Conkling and Platt, but nothing is settled.

LOST ON THE PLAINS.

The Chapter of Accidents That Major Scoville Read on Madeline Plains.

Major S. C. Scoville, Secretary of the N. & O. R. R., has lately returned from a trip to the Oregon line. While crossing the Madeline Plains, north of Susanville, he lost the way in the darkness of night, and his team took him entirely out of his reckoning. It rained furiously, and the belated traveler came near perishing from exposure. He attempted to light a fire, and the matches would not ignite. He subsequently found they had all fused in his pocket. When the storm first came on, he took refuge in the buggy, and tied the horses to the wheels. They became frightened and started backwards. Scoville piled over the dashboard and caught them before they had done any damage. He was obliged to remain in the storm all night, and at break of day struck across lots to a barn, where Mr. McDonald directed him back to the road. The end of his adventures was rather fortunate, all things considered, but Scoville does not want to pass another such night on the plains.

REUNITED.

How Two Long Separated Brothers Learned of Each Other's Whereabouts.

A Louisville, Kentucky, paper has this item which will interest Reno readers: When the Mexican war had closed there came home to Louisville two brave soldiers who had manfully done their duty. These were William and Albert White. The first named has since resided here, and for years has been the honored Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows. His brother Albert caught the gold fever, and in 1849 joined the parties that thronged to California, since which time he has never returned. The brothers kept up a regular correspondence until the unfortunate period of the war, when a letter was received by Mr. White, full of sympathy for the Southern cause. Then the correspondence ceased, and he supposed that his brother had gone away to the South, and as he heard nothing of him he was mourned as dead. Last year Mr. White went to Toronto, Canada, to attend the meeting of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows for the world. During the deliberations, he noticed a delegate gazing so intently at him as to render him somewhat uncomfortable. Finally the stranger approached him and inquired: "Is your name White?" Mr. White responded that it was. "Have you a brother?" asked the stranger.

"I had a brother, Albert, but for years I have not seen nor heard from him, and have given him up as dead," replied Mr. White.

"Well, sir," said the stranger, "he is not dead. He is my friend, and lives in Reno, Nevada, my home. My name is Starling; I am the representative from my Grand Lodge. I was led to ask you these questions by your strong resemblance to Albert White, and I am very glad to bring you tidings of a lost brother. He is well and prosperous."

Mr. White was overjoyed at this good news, and made haste, on his return home, to communicate with his brother.

Mrs. Ida White, the wife of Mr. Albert White, is now in this city visiting her newly found brother-in-law, and brought with her a splendid gold watch and chain as a gift from her husband in his name-sake, the son of Mr. William White. The latter gentleman displays with pardonable pride a virgin gold watch chain from the mines of Nevada, sent him by his brother. This is a somewhat remarkable bringing together of long separated brothers, and the wide acquaintance and popularity of Mr. White renders it of interest to every one, and notably to the Odd Fellows.

Quong Gets It.

Ali Quong, the genial and ingenious pigtail, who claims to be a contractor and a great man generally, has come to grief. He has been at his old tricks and this time gets rewarded in summary fashion. Quong was in danger once or twice before of being killed by his irate countrymen and was rescued by men under whom he worked, once by Tom Hymers. This time it was in Carson and no succor was at hand. Quong had hired some Chinamen for $28 per month to work on the Bodie & Mono railroad. When they arrived they learned that $28 was the rate. They cornered Quong in Carson on Saturday and proceeded to beat him to death. Eleven of the assailants were fined $25 each, and went to jail. The Appeal says that the Chinese tried Quong's case in the joss house and sentenced him to death. A committee was appointed to kill him. Quong is a scoundrel if there is one in the Chinese nation. Merchants here have learned him and it would be well if he changed his field or plan of operations.

Temperance Abroad.

Sister J. B. McGee is at Fort Scott, Kansas, and is much delighted with the temperance regulations at that point. A physician was recently fined $50 for administering Kentucky wine to a patient. That's the way it ought to be every place. If the system were enforced here, Nevada would soon be the wealthiest and most sparsely settled State in the Union.

A Fine Lecture.

The GAZETTE did not have space yesterday to notice Governor Woods' lecture on Mohammedanism at the Reform Club on Saturday night. The discourse was very exhaustive in its range, and rivaled some of Starr King's famous efforts in apt illustration and elegance of diction.

DECORATION DAY.

An Old Soldier Tells About Lincoln's Last Review.

Although there was no formal observance of Decoration Day in Reno, there was a universal expression of respect for the custom and reverence for the memory of the Blue and the Grey. The GAZETTE agrees with W. L. Bechtel, of the Oasis, that memorial day should be on April 14th instead of May 30th, in order to pay tribute at the same time to the anniversary of Lincoln's death and the brave private soldier who carried a musket.

Bechtel remembers vividly the last review at which Lincoln was present. The Army of the Potomac lay before Petersburg and was drawn up in line for review upon President Lincoln's arrival. Bechtel was in the 21st Pennsylvania Volunteer Cavalry, and the men were compelled to remain in line for four long hours, while the President passed along the line. Although a drenching rain was falling at the time the great man stood up in his carriage with uncovered head, bowing to the private soldier and officer with equal urbanity. Men stood about him in the carriage to prevent his falling, and thus he rode along the entire line. Cheers upon cheers were given him, and the roar of applause and enthusiasm went along the line as he progressed. Order was simply out of the question—the men could not contain their emotions; and there was not a man in all that vast army who would not have cheerfully died to save the precious life which directed the Union cause.

The review was ended, and while yet men's hearts were full of his great hearted simplicity, while Lincoln's presence was still felt, news came that an assassin had struck down the head of a free people and wounded a nation's heart. What could be more appropriate than to remember the martyred President each anniversary of his death.

Dead.

This morning at 10:30 A. M. Louis Jodoin died at the Arcade Hotel. Jodoin left his parents, whom he represented as wealthy people, in Montreal, Canada, and went to San Francisco. This was about ten years ago. After working in San Francisco for some time he came to Reno. He worked for W. R. Chamberlain at the Depot for about five years, after which he went to the Arcade Hotel. He was recently stricken with pneumonia and his friends hoped that he was on the way to recovery. Last night, however, he went to bed quite sick, and this morning, after much suffering, with a sigh he gave up his life.

"Louis," as he was familiarly called, was a perfect gentleman in the largest sense. He had friends without number, and earned them by courtesy and goodness of heart. He left no letter or scrap of paper which would tell his parents' names, and it is surmised that some grief or pride had estranged him from home and friends. Be that as it may, the battle is over, and the grave is made. A warm, manly heart is still, the hands of friendship are folded, and a smiling face is covered by the mask of death. Men in higher stations might well emulate the simple courtesy and manly bearing of Louis Jodoin.

Justice Court.

The celebrated case of Parish vs. Berry is occupying the attention of Magistrate Young. The forenoon has been consumed in impaneling a jury and the testimony began at 1:30 this afternoon. Major Mann and Roger Johnson Esq., appeared for plaintiff, and Judge Webster for defendant.

THE FIRST RAILROAD.

A Firman of 1836 on the New Jersey R. R. Tells How It Looked.

Mr. C. V. Jeffries, of New York, is in Reno, and tells a GAZETTE reporter some interesting things about the first railroad. This is specially interesting at this time when there is more money invested in new railroad enterprises than at any previous time in the world's history. It is considered nothing now to project and build a railroad across a continent. Mr. Jeffries fired on the "Elizabeth," the second engine ever built by Ketchum, Grosvenor & Co., Patterson, N. J., in 1836. It ran on the New Jersey railroad, the first road built out of New York City. It is now a part of the Pennsylvania Central. The locomotives in those days had but one driving wheel, and that was from two-feet-nine to three feet in diameter. The ties were laid lengthwise, and upon these the old strap rail, 1/2 to 3/4 of an inch wide, was spiked down. The passenger cars would seat about ten on each side, and a platform ran around the outside, there being no end doors. The brakeman was perched up on the car like a bus driver, and worked the brake with his foot. The engine was fired in front of the smoke stack. There was no spark catcher on the smoke stack, and the brakemen had to wear what was called a "coat-of-mail" to keep from catching fire. At Bergen Hill the first rock cut was made. The cars were formerly pulled over that hill with horses, but finally the company determined to cut through it. The cut was 20 feet by 25, and when completed was thought to be a wonderful thing. A grade of 20 feet to the mile was enormous, and if an engine made 12 or 15 miles an hour, that was excellent work. Mr. Jeffries is an extensive traveler, and has been fortunate in escaping accidents. He knows of but one man, Duncan, of Detroit, among the railroaders of that day, who is now living. At the time spoken of there was but one other railroad, that from Albany to Schenectady. Mr. Jeffries has seen the systems of telegraphy, horse car lines and railroads in their infancy. If we keep on at the same rate, he thinks the flying machine is a thing of to-morrow.

Against the Law.

Woodchoppers would do well to bear in mind that it is against the law to remove wood and timber from the surface ground of mining claims. The timber is reserved by law for the benefit of the mines. The man who removes wood from a mine is subject to prosecution. Several owners of mines on Prospect Mountain have requested the Sentinel to call attention to this subject. They further say that they will make it their business to see that the law is enforced to the letter in the future. Woodchoppers and haulers are likely to get themselves into trouble if they are not careful how they trespass on mining claims.

Verdi News.

Judge Borman is down from West Reno. Katz & Henry's mill has been closed down for two days. The stoppage was caused by breaking the eccentric on the engine. The mill was started again to-day.

Lonkey & Smith will build a house and live at Verdi. Their planing mill is doing a fine business, and they will supply wood to the Virginia market. There were millions of grass hoppers on the Bates ranch, and they have suddenly disappeared. Now not one is to be found.

The Comstock.

During the past twenty years the Comstock lode has shown sixteen bonanzas, from which 6,500,000 tons of ore has been extracted. The average assay value of this large mass was $26 per ton; it yielded in the mill $41.80, and from the treatment of sluices $5; total $46.80 per ton. The total value of ore extracted was $363,671,605, yielding a net sum from the mills and sluices of $333,671,605. The average proportion of precious metals in value is forty-five per cent, gold and fifty-five per cent silver.

Rucking Bicyclists.

The trans-continental trip for a wager of $2,000 has come to an end. Bennet went back home last night; and Merrill and Caryl took the road for Susanville yesterday. Money was the trouble, and Bennet said he did not start out for the pleasure of oiling Merrill's bicycle. If the boys hadn't put most of their money into that $4,000 pot they would have had enough to travel on.

—Blakely has removed and has a fine store on Sierra street, near the GAZETTE office.
—The Carson Tribune says almost every family has a vehicle and a piano-forte—and a skeleton.
—The recent cold weather is said to have killed off the most of the grasshoppers at Mason Valley.
—Living is cheap in the Wood River mines. Eggs sell at twenty-five cents per dozen and butter at two bits per pound.

—Somebody said to-day on the street that times were hard when lawyers and doctors took to the newspaper business. The local editor can thump the man that said it.
—A subscriber in Asia wants to know what "Apollinaris" means. It means that Bechtel keeps the famous water of that name at the Oasis; also every other luxury known to a thirsty man.
—Several Chinamen, who had served out their contracts for labor in Havana, Cuba, were on the emigrant train to-day on their way back to China. Among them were two or three children, from six to nine years of age, who were born in Cuba.

Minstrels To-Night.

Concerning the troupe which appears at the Nevada Theatre to-night, the New York Tribune says:
The artists composing the troupe were remarkably clever in their several specialties, and gave a proof of keen sense of the ridiculous; they have also the correct idea of burlesque. It would be very difficult, if not impossible, to sit out the entertainment supplied by these minstrels with a serious face. The vagaries of the "Big Four" were especially amusing; they brim over with fun, and keep the audience constantly amused by their grotesque doings. Morton and Haverly are great performers, and always please their audiences, especially with the refined portion of it. They are far above the general minstrel performers.

Personal.

A. E. Ross, Long Valley, is in Reno. Col. Moore has returned from San Francisco.
Judge E. D. Wheeler of San Francisco is in Reno.
Sam Grass, the legal luminary of Humboldt, is here.
C. R. Allen was in town last evening and returned to Truckee.
James G. Chesley and wife of Carson came to Reno last night and returned home this morning.

Located.

Dr. W. S. Springsteen has settled in Reno and will practice his profession at this point. He can be found at Mrs. Salisbury's, Virginia street, opposite the Bank, until further notice. The doctor stands well in his profession.

Going East.

W. H. H. Wasson goes East the latter part of June. His position will be occupied by Mr. Wesley from Rochester, New York. Mr. Wasson goes to Pennsylvania first, and from there to Washington, D. C.

More Attractions.

The Big "4" minstrel troupe has a fine band. Chalet, the wonderful ventriloquist, and Sam. Dearin, the eccentric comedian, have lately joined the company. The troupe now has twenty members.

Women Never Think.

If the crabbled old bachelor who uttered this sentiment could but witness the intense thought, deep study and thorough investigation of women in determining the best medicines to keep their families well, and would note their sagacity and wisdom in selecting Hop Bitters as the best, and demonstrating it by keeping their families in perpetual health, as a mere nominal expense, he would be forced to acknowledge that such sentiments are baseless and false.

A Blasted Body.

Does not always belong to an inebriate. Kidney troubles will cause blood, but Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure has never failed to remove it.

Mr. Jim Keene has been badly hit at both the Stock and Produce Exchange. In truth he has had little less than a steady run of bad luck for many months, which proves that the law of averages is as inexorable in gambling business as it is in life insurance. One of the favorite bankers of the German stock operators told me yesterday as an open secret that Keene called on Woerishoffer the day previous and offered him a check for $200,000 in settlement of his short contract in Milwaukee and St. Paul, and Woerishoffer replied: "Make it a million, Keene, and we'll close it all up." Whereupon the latter gentleman retired uttering terse expressions concerning the cupidity of the human race. To get even with Woerishoffer, who is credited at the Produce Exchange with being short the amazing amount of 7,000,000 bushels of wheat, Keene yesterday commenced a vigorous bull campaign. I don't keep a daily run of produce affairs, so I asked a friend who has some of the best foreign as well as home accounts, and he expressed the opinion that Keene would lose everything he put up buying wheat. One of these days he will lose the balance. Only the men like Gould, Vanderbilt, Sloan, Taylor, and a number of others who keep one-half and more of their money and energies occupied in conducting legitimate enterprises, ever survive, in the street. Keene will some day belong to the noble army of insurance brokers, for it is queer to notice how the broken down street men gravitate to the insurance business.

Speed at Which Wings are Driven.

Fraser's Magazine.

The speed at which some wings are driven is enormous. It is occasionally so great as to cause the pinions to emit a drumming sound. To this source the buzz of the fly, the drone of the bee, and the boom of the beetle are to be referred. When a house partridge or pheasant suddenly springs into the air the sound produced by the whirring of its wings greatly resembles that produced by the contact of steel with the rapidly-revolving stone of the knife-grinder. It has been estimated that the common fly moves its wings 330 times per second, that is, 19,800 times per minute, and that the butterfly moves its wings 9 times per second, or 540 times per minute. These movements represent an incredibly high speed even at the roots of the wings; but the speed is enormously increased at the tips of the wings, from the fact that the tips rotate upon the roots at centers.

Conundrum Guessed.

It was a Boston girl who asked: "Why is it that two souls mated in the impregnable mystery of their nativity, float by on the ocean current of their existence without being instinctively drawn together, blended and beautified in the assimilated alchemy of eternal love?" This is an easy one. It is because butter is forty-five cents a pound and a good seal skin sacque costs as high as $500. The necessities of life must experience a fall in price before two souls will readily blend in the assimilated alchemy.

Boston girls are very proper. When a young man was assisting a South End lass to tie on her bonnet, which, by the way, had to be tied at the back of the neck, she insisted that he should stand in front of her, so she could keep her eye on him.—Boston Post.

"This is the widow of my discontent," said the old man who had married a fashionable young woman who had planted her first husband under the sod of sorrow and bankruptcy.—Stevensville Herald.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty and sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by slight smarting or burning sensation and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits a rosy sediment will often be found, and some small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thick milky hue, again changing to a dark and turbid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genital-urinary organs.
